

The Red Flags Rule:

An Overview for Healthcare Providers

A Self-Paced CD-ROM Continuing Education Course

The Red Flags Rule: An Overview for Healthcare Providers is a CD-ROM based interactive course. This self-paced CD-ROM course provides an overview of the Red Flags Rule issued by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), with enforcement as of June 2010.

This overview course will cover the following topic areas:

- An overview of the structure and content of the Red Flags Rule
- What types of medical practices/businesses the Rule applies to
- FTC categories of "Red Flags"
- Examples of red flags more specific to healthcare providers
- The difference between the Red Flags Rule and HIPAA regulations
- The FTC's 4-step method of complying with the Rule, and how you can implement it

The self-paced nature of the course allows you to work at your own pace. All of the content is accessible at any time and in any sequence, so you can use this CD as a reference afterward.

To run The Red Flags Rule: An Overview for Healthcare Providers on your computer, you must have a PC with Microsoft Windows XP or later, and a CD-ROM drive. The course is completely self-contained on CD; Internet connection not needed, and nothing gets loaded onto your hard drive.
